

United we can break down barriers, open doors, and transform lives.

Brandon found a sense of purpose through a supportive employment program powered by United Way East Ontario.

This program helps people overcome homelessness, addiction, and mental health challenges by building the skills they need to start a career. Brandon received personalized guidance, peer motivation, and the professional certifications to secure a stable job.

"Every time I came to see them, I felt like I had a home away from home and a whole family of people who supported me" —Brandon, program participant

The local facts:*

United we can create possibilities.

We invest in employment programs and supports that help Indigenous youth and equity-deserving groups, such as newcomers and people with disabilities, strengthen their skills and land jobs.

We advocate for and invest in financial literacy programs, rural transportation, and utilities relief so people can meet their basic needs.

We work with partners to direct local buying power where it matters most: supporting social enterprises, choosing ethical suppliers, and creating jobs through major community projects.

We champion community wealth-building strategies that put local people in control of their own economic wellbeing and break down barriers to create opportunities.
